

Decent People, Decent Company

Special Event

Who: Bob and Lyn Turknett

What: Bob and Lyn lead a discussion about the book

When: July 8, 2005, 7:30-8:30 am

Where: 191 Club, 191 Peachtree Street, Suite 400, Atlanta, GA 30303

Come fix a plate from the breakfast buffet and meet Robert and Carolyn (Lyn) Turknett, 191 Club Members, as they introduce their book entitled "Decent People, Decent Company". Drawing on more than 25 years of experience working with hundreds of CEO's, managers, and teams, Robert and Carolyn Turknett provide both the inspiration and the tools to help you move from asking, "Why don't they?" to asking "What can I?" With their original and dynamic Leadership Character Model, they identify the eight essential aspects of true leadership character and capture the essence of what it takes to bring integrity, respect and responsibility back to the workplace.

"Gives advice that works equally well for all employees, from frontline supervisors to CEO's. This book offers all employees in every organization the opportunity to meet their responsibility to be effective leaders." From the Foreword by Kent "Oz" Nelson, former Chairman & CEO of UPS.

Books will be available for purchase and signing. Reservations are required and can be made by contacting the Club Receptionist at 404.222.0191.

Member Breakfast is complimentary,
Guests $9.95

The One Ninety One Club, founded by the city's distinguished business leaders, was established to serve Atlanta's corporate, political, cultural and academic community. The Club provides its Membership and their guests, with a distinguished setting conducive to business and social entertaining.